Press Release

Hillsboro, TX – The Department of State Health Services (DSHS) has provided further revision on the cases of COVID-19 in Hill County. A male in his sixties from Hillsboro has been added to the list of cases, but he is listed as already recovered. It is an older case that had not previously been reported in the count for Hill County. This case brings the total number of cases to 15 for the county. Statewide numbers report 22,806 cases in Texas with 1,674 patients hospitalized, 593 fatalities and an estimated 9,156 individuals recovered.

“As we said yesterday, we continue to receive new information from DSHS, and we try to share it as soon as we know about it, but it takes time for them to sort through the volume of data they have,” said Hill County Judge Justin Lewis. “I wouldn’t be surprised if we have more revisions like this. It’s just a reminder that even though our number of cases in the county seems relatively small, we still have a threat lurking and reason to be cautious and voluntarily comply with social distancing guidelines and stay home orders” continued Lewis.

“We’ve been operating under protective guidelines for over a month now, and I know everyone is restless and concerned about the future, but we need to focus on the present and take this one day at a time. Hill County will bounce back,” said Lewis. “We’ve seen how quickly everyone was able to mobilize and alter their way of doing business when we became aware of a threat. I have no doubt, we will move with that same determination when it is time to resume normal activities. In the meantime, we must focus our efforts on curtailing the spread of this virus and protecting ourselves, our loved ones, our frontline workers and the most vulnerable of our residents,” stated Lewis.

For residents who have been adversely affected financially by the pandemic, there are a number of resources available to assist Hill County residents. The following lists show the organizations aiding with food and meals and utility bills. The complete list can be found at www.raisinghilltx.com.

As limited activities are restarting, it is important to note the Governor's stay-home except for essential activities order is still in place.
